Operational report No.00341. Headquarters of the 64th IAK, An'dun. 6 December 1952. 2400 hrs. Map 1:500,000 - 1941.

I.

On 6 December, the corps carried out its assigned combat order.
On 6 December, the [cut off] IAK and the united VA completed the primary order which provided for the following:
Due to the unfavorable weather conditions (smoke coming from the enemy side, and fog at the An'dun air hub), the first half of the day was spent protecting the target from the enemy's ground attack aircraft. Part of the force, (up to two regiments) was to head to the stand-by zone and direct the others to the ground attack aircraft before they leave the borders of Ansyu-Kejsan-Uitkhen. They are also to increase their strength and to raise [cut off] to readiness 1, depending on the situation.
The second half of the day, in connection with combat with hidden enemy fighters, the forces of the United VA and the corps' fighters destroyed the ground attack aircraft.

In all, 100 sorties (64-IAK, 36 United VA) were flown that day. The enemy was not engaged.

1. The Corps' air assets conducted 64 sorties, with a total flight time of 57 hours and 49 minutes, on the target in the An'dun area, and 270 [3 cut off]

Supplement to operational report No. 00340 for 5 December 1952.

On 5 December, our fighters shot down the leader of a group of four from the 51st Air Group made up of Canadian VVS [Air Force] trainees. The commander of the squadron, Major Andr'yu Robert Makken, parachuted and landed in the area of Supkhuni near the 151st anti-aircraft battery. Prior to the approach by our personnel, Major Makken open fired with a pistol. He surrendered after we returned fire from our side. He was turned over to the Chinese authorities.
